

Belgian Research Station
in Antarctica Princess Elisabeth

International Expressions of Interest

Following the decision of the Council of Ministers, held on the 6 February 2004, a new Belgian research station will be set up in the Sør Rondane Mountains, Dronning Maud Land, Antarctica.

In order to promote international research collaboration and to develop international research activities at the new Belgian research station in Antarctica, Princess Elisabeth, the Belgian Science Policy calls on the international science community to complete a submission form "International expression of Interest".

The new research platform is offered to researchers, individually or as a team and linked to university institutions, public scientific institutions and non-profit research centres.

The EoI-forms should be returned by e-mail to the Belgian Science Policy.
